This is the street to be improv- l either the latter part of this year the first of next conjunctively by e borough and the State, while the tter is doing other road work in this cinity. Borough Engineer Paul G. der set the grade along Lincoln enue about a month ago.

When it was learned that State aid uld be procured for work along ncoln avenue, the borough council once had the grade set by the bor- gh engineer and an ordinance was afted. This followed a petition to ncil from a majority of the prop- y holders along that street. The ate engineers surveyed only the rtion of the route to be improved in the borough.

t is impossible to say at the pres- time when work will begin on the ds the State proposes to improve, the borough will be ready at any e to do its share. When State ghway Commissioner E. M. Give Hundred Tons of Material for Railroad Structure Sent up River

This morning the Steamer Jim Brown, towing a cargo of 500 tons of structural iron, went through Lock No. 4 on its way towards headwaters. The iron was consigned to Ledgesville, which is along the line of the new Monongahela Railroad extension, now being built. There is to be a bridge built and some of the iron will probably be used in it. At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon the river was 18 feet high and rising slowly.

NEW KIND OF SHADE

Lot of Norway Maples to Arrive Latter Part of Week

ORDERED BY CITIZENS

Shade trees ordered in lot by a number of citizens through a special committee composed of Borough Clerk Ira L. Nickeson, William Kirk and W. D. Pollock are expected to arrive the latter part of this week and will be delivered at once. M. Wilson, who represents the nursery concern supplying the trees received the contract, and he will collect for them upon delivery. The kind ordered were from 8 to 10 feet and will cost 65 cents apiece.

The trees ordered are of the Norway Maple variety. They grow rapidly and are not destructive to sewers as are the Carolina Poplars, which they displace. The committee was appointed at the petition of certain property holders in the borough and they received orders for trees. The borough is still engaged in the work of removing the obnoxious Carolina Poplars, where property holders so desire, free of cost.

STATE POLICE MAY BE CALLED UPON TO PATROL THE VALLEY

Force of Constabulary to be Transferred From Marianna--Will Make Headquarters at Monongahela

It is stated that the requests of the citizens of Monongahela who have been terrorized by a series of murders and robberies for a detatchment of the State Constabulary has borne fruit, and that Capt. Adams of Company A, located at Greensburg, will comply with the request. He has made arrangements for the transfer of three troopers from Marianna to Monongahela, who, is is said, will be located at the home of I. W. Steele.

The troopers, it is stated, will patrol the whole valley, as it is outside of the boroughs where the most of the lawlessness takes place. Monongahela is fairly well policed, as are all the other incorporated towns of any size in the valley, and the presence of the troopers in the townships will do much to prevent a recurrence of the crimes that have been committed lately. Since being located at Marianna the troopers have had a decided reterrent effect on the lawlessness that formerly prevailed in that community.

WOMAN HELD AT THE POINT OF GUN WHILE BURGLARS ROB HOME

Daylight Marauders Enter Manown Dwelling and Scour Premises for Valuables--Two Masked Men Committed Deed

Following close on the heels of the numerous other crimes in the reign of lawlessness which has prevailed in that section, a holdup was committed at Manown Tuesday morning which for boldness and daring was of the typical wild west order. Manown is a small mining town across the river from Monongahela, the inhabitants of which are mostly foreigners. The victim of the robbery was Mrs. John Sadinski, who in her own home was covered with a revolver by two masked men, who ransacked the house, securing a sum of money and a gold watch.

While in the pursuit of her household duties in the morning shortly after her husband entered the mine where he is employed, Mrs. Sadinski was suddenly confronted by a masked man who had entered the house silently through the open door. He poked a revolver in the woman's face and gave her to understand that any outcry or noise on her part would imperil her life. A companion, also masked, began ransacking the house, and after he had secured a gold watch and a sum of money which the woman was hoarding for family use, the men decamped.

Frightened almost into hysterics Mrs. Sadinski gave the alarm as soon as she dared, but the men had had ample time to escape. The authorities were notified, but have no clue as to the identity of the robbers.

PETITIONS FOR IMPROVED ROAD

Peters Township Citizens to Seek Aid of State Commissioner Bigelow

J. H. Gillespie, James A. Bell and Davis Rees, supervisors of Peters township, filed a petition this week with the commissioners for the improvement by the State of a road in Peters township. The road begins at Snodgrass and passes through Thompsonville and ending at Allegheny county line. C. O. Regester, president of the Centerville council and William Bailey, burgess also filed state petitions for a road in that borough. The road begins 300 feet south of the Griffiths bridge road leading from Beallsville to Centerville, via Coal Center and extending southward to its intersection with the National pike.

WOMEN WILL CONDUCT ANNUAL RUMAGE SALE

Beginning on Friday of this week and continuing Saturday and Monday the Ladies Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold their annual rummage sale at 602 Fallowfield avenue. TELLS OF WORK IN FAR WEST

Rev. L. F. Athey Gives Lecture at Methodist Episcopal Church

On a trip to the East to raise funds with which to continue the building of a church in the district in New Mexico, where he is laboring for the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. L. F. Athey, a Methodist minister lectured at the Methodist Episcopal church here Tuesday evening on the subject "Missionary Life in the Far West, or Experiences of a Tenderfoot." After the lecture a silver offering was taken and this money will be added to the fund being collected by Rev. Athey.

In opening his lecture Rev. Athey told of his work in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia before he went west. He settled in Oklahoma and took an active part in the fight for State-wide Prohibition, and told of the battle which the temperance people had made, and the glorious success they had attained. From Oklahoma Rev. Athey went to New Mexico. He described his experiences there in a picturesque manner. In the town to which he went there were 500 people, with no churches. There were five saloons. People live as they can, as money is scarce. Many of the characters with whom he came in contact, Rev. Athey, stated, were of the roughest class. He told of his success and hopes to build a church, having already raised $500 among the people of the town for the work. Stories and ancedotes served to make his talk most interesting.

The organization of a lodge of the order of Owls at Burgettstown has stirred up a hot fight in that community. TO MAKE CAMPAIGN

GOOD SPEAKERS COMING

Like their Republican brethren, the fusionists are planning for an aggressive campaign in the county, and have secured some noted spellbinders to make addresses. James R. Garfield, of Ohio, a son of the late President Garfield, is said to have consented to make an address in Washington county at some meeting to be arranged later. Hon. Clyde Kelley of Braddock, the well known insurgent of the Legislature at the last session has also been secured.

The first of a series of meetings is scheduled to take place at Washington Friday night. Mr. Kelley will be the chief speaker, and others will be on hand. Rufus Marriner, Esq., it is stated, will make an auto tour of the county, and will speak at all the principal centers during the campaign. It is stated that arrangements are being made by the various candidates to work together, and to cover as much territory as possible.

McCarrell is Hopeful.

Robert L. McCarrell of East Washington, the Democratic-Keystone nominee for county treasurer, was in town Tuesday evening. With S. M. Downer of Monongahela, the Republican candidate as an opponent Mr. McCarrell realizes that he has a hard fight in prospect with odds against him, but like all candidates he finds encouragement on every hand.

Supposed Murderer of Joshua Wyeth Not to be Brought Back

TWENTY-TWO IN JAIL

Members of "Alcohol Gang" Help to Fill up Washington County Bastile

While 22 of his fellow members of the noted "Alcohol Gang" of Monongahela are serving out their sentences in the county jail at Washington John W. "Shocky" Sarver, the alleged murdered of Joshua Wyeth, is languishing in the Allegheny county jail, awaiting the time when he will be called upon to appear before the court to answer the charge of manslaughter. Sarver will not be brought back to Washington county for trial, as it was stated a day or so ago, but will appear before the Allegheny county tribunal.

Sarver has engaged as his attorney Vernon Hazzard, Esq., of Monongahela. It is believed that he will be called upon to appear before the court some time next week. He has been insistent that he rid not intend to kill Wyeth.

Five more victims of the raid of the "Alcohol Gang" were lodged in the county jail Tuesday. These newest recruits to the ranks of the river undesirables now in durance vile are William Louttit, Charles Hilton, Jacob Nichol, Charles Swanger and Pete Shovelin. Mayor Isler sentenced them to 60 days in jail for disorderly conduct.

One of the members of the gang now in jail at Washington said of the alleged murderer: "We had gotten a half gallon of whiskey and a keg of beer and gone across the river from Monongahela. We were having a good time when the trouble occurred between Wyeth and Sarver. Then the blow was struck with the beer bottle. Of course we all wanted to get away. I rolled down the hill, because I knew I couldn't walk."

Monongahela is now happily free from the undesirable outfit. Carousing, making of a peaceful community an unregenerate locality, the "Alcohol Gang" bred crimes and developed criminals. With the late murder, there has been a decided sentiment to do away with the kind of lawless behavior which has heretofore been tolerated, and as evidence of the good intentions of the authorities is the presence of the 22 characters in jail.

Emory Snyder of Bentleyville, who was nominated by the Phohibitionists at the recent primary for prothonotary has filed at the clerk of court's office a notice of withdrawal. This leaves the fight between but two candidates, Dr. A. V. Lewis of Donora, Republican and Joe B. Martin of California, Democratic-Keystone.

DIRECT PRIMARIES.

Commending upon the beneficient provisions of the direct primary election law, which was given a severe test throughout the State at the recent nominating election on September 30, the Philadelphia Press says:

"The direst primary method of nominating candidates for elective offices has made remarkable progress in a few years Since the movement began it has been steadily advanced no step taken having been backward.

"The recent primaries in this city and State gave our own system the severest test it has had since it was enacted in 1906, and it justified itself. The one complaint and a reasonable one, is that there are too many candidates to be voted for; that some of the offices now filled by popular election could be quite as well provided for by appointment. This is a matter that inevitably will be adjusted in time, and is desirable if for no other reason than that it would give the voter at the primaries a better opportunity to consider the selection of candidates for the more important offices, not having to waste time on a multitude of nominations of little consequence.

"The primary laws of the different States, where such have been adopted, are by no means uniform, and cannot be expected to be. But all are coming to some direct nomination system. Masachusetts this year has such a method for the first time, covering all offices. New York, after a long struggle, has adopted the direct primary for the nomination of all candidates except those for State offices. While the act was despoiled of many of its good features by Tammany influences it is accepted as an advance in so far as it recognizes and establishes the direct primary principle.

"In the East the direct primary has now been adopted in one form or another, in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and practically in Maryland. These do not include the nomination of candidates for State officers except in New Jersey, but do nominate candidates for other offices. West of the Mississippi all States, except Colorado, Montana, Minnesota, Utah and Wyoming, have mandatory laws covering all State nominations, and in Minnesota the law requires the nomination at the direct primary of all candidates except those voted for by the State at large, a law similar to that of Pennsylvania.

"State wide primaries are provided also in Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois, the latter State having succeeded in securing a primary law after the fourth attempt. Ohio has a modified law not very different from that of this State, while Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Indiana and Delaware have optional systems of direct nominations applying only to certain offices or localities. In all the States of the South, except North Carolina, both candidates for State offices and for United States Senators are nominated by the direct vote of the people. In the summing up it is found that Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, West Virginia and Vermont are the only States which have not in some way introduced the direct primary. In West Virginia the subject is under general discussion, and action is not likely to be long delayed.

"That the principle of nomination by direct vote will ultimately prevail throughout the country cannot be doubted. The system will not have the same application everywhere, but the sound policy of giving the people the right to make nominations by their own votes direct and being responsible therefor, is certain to be established and once tried the system remains."

GOOD MOVE.

The statement that a detachment of the State Constabulary will be located at Monongahela with instructions to patrol the whole valley will be received with general satisfaction The outbreak of lawlessness that has taken place lately in the vicinity of Monongahela calls for summary action, and as the archaic system of police protection in the townships are never adequate in cases where a large cosmopolitan population exists, it is necessary to have additional aid.

This duty of the State Constabulary should be the chief aim and object of that body. Instead of being quartered in barracks they should be detailed in pairs to patrol the townships where more police protection is needed. That was supposed to be the real function of the body when the law creating it was enacted. Instead the constabulary is used chiefly to take the place of the State militia, a duty by the way, which the latter body performs infinitely better than the militia, but nevertheless one which should not be encroached upon so long as the military arm is maintained. If the latter body is found to be ineffictive it should be disbanded and the constabulary increased. To maintain the militia purely for encampment and display purposes is rather an expensive luxury.

Inasmuch as life and property in Western Pennsylvania are not nearly so safe now as in pioneer times, when Indians and wild beasts menaced the inhabitants, more and better means of protection should be afforded. The constabulary as a police force is unexcelled and there can be no valid objection to it when it performs this service.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"With all due allowances for the alleged evils of hat gigantic octopus known as the Standard Oil company, one is forced to take off his hat to their business methods," said a prominent coal operator of this section, while discussing trust methods and similar topics the other evening. "Thanks to John D. Rockefeller's old-fashioned ideas of business the Standard has never had to resort to the frenzied method of financing in order to increase its holdings or acquire new interests. This concern always did business in the proper way—that is saved money and put it in a strong box, and consequently always had a reserve fund to use in sudden emergencies.

"None of the other big concerns do this. For instance, you notice that when the United States Steel corporation buys 7,000 acres of coal lands in this valley from the River combine, bonds to the amount of the purchase price—$18,000,000—are issued against the property and a mortgage placed to secure them, and the big Steel company guarantees the interest. In other words the concern that bought the coal didn't have the ready money to pay for it, but mortgaged the property, and must pay interest until the bonds can be liquidated during a long term of years.

"Had the Standard Oil company bought this property it would have paid spot cash, and the money of its reserve which is compounding interest through the banking system inaugurated by the Standard Thus it would have saved the five per cent interest on the $18,000,000 which will have to be paid for a period of perhaps from twenty to thirty years That is the way the Standard makes money so rapidly by being able to do business at all times on strictly business principles.

"It is stated that the Standard people can command from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 in spot cash at any time it sees fit. It is always ready to build tanks and pipe a new oil field at a moment's notice. No other concern exists that can do this, that has the capital and experienced people at its command ready at all times to start in a new field in Pennsylvania, Texas, Kansas, Alaska, Hawaii or anywhere else. That is another reason why the Standard gets in at the start in all new oil fields. It has the capital and outfit to take care of the oil, which is equivalent, as a magazine writer expressed it, of taking over gold dollars at 50 cents from the owners who have to sell. It requires a reserve of millions and millions of dollars as well as an army of highly trained men, and no one else but the Standard is able to do this, as the organization has been an evolution instead of an achievement.

"But the foundation of it all is strict business methods and an avoidance of debt. The Standard doesn't have any big bond issues to eat up profits, and it has one of the most highly developed systems of finance to take care of and increase its profits and reserves. It makes money where other big corporations lose, and its profits in turn make more profit, and all because it does business as business ought to be done by all corporations and individuals."

HARD BATTLE FOR THE DOG

Sport Killed the Big Bob Cat, but He Suffered Severely in the Combat.

After a battle in which he came near meeting death himself, Sport, a medium sized coach dog, the property of W. M Butterbaugh, a rancher living in Lemp's Gulch, Idaho, killed a bob cat that measured six feet from nose to tip of tail.

The dog was terribly scratched and bitten and has not yet entirely recovered. He was mauled by the long, sharp claws of the big cat and in some places the scratches are deep, digging clear to the bone. The cat would weigh half again as much as the dog, and towered above him in height.

Mr. Butterbaugh did not see the fight, but arrived on the scene shortly after the dog had killed the cat and found his faithful friend lying on the ground, unable to move, and scarcely living. It looked at the time like a bad case, but he succeeded in nursing the animal back to life.

"For some days we had been missing chickens," Mr. Butterbaugh said, "and I was unable to figure out what was killing them. I would get up in the morning and find one or two lying dead in the barnyard, still warm, and I could not tell what sort of an animal was doing the mischief.

"But Sport figured it out, and one morning I heard him take out after something. I got up as soon as I could and followed up the gulch, expecting that they would take that trail. When I got there I found the dog lying on the ground and the big cat dead.

"The dog had chased him up there, but the cat had turned on him and shown fight. They must have fought there 15 minutes before the battle was settled. And from the looks of both the cat and the dog it must have been a terrible battle."

An Incident of the Road.

"That's what they all say," said the man in the road, climbing into the car. "You can tell your story to the magistrate at Hinktown—jest seven miles up the road. Start along, please."

"Much obliged for the lift," said he. "You can settle that matter of speed with the magistrate if you want to. As a stranger in these here parts I don't think my word would go for much."

Gem of Ancient Architecture.

The Oratory of Gallerus, situated on the Dingle promontory in Kerry, is probably the oldest place of Christian worship in the United Kingdom. It is unique in its architecture, for it was built without mortar, and the arch was formed direct from the ground level by the peculiar placing of the stones In the east gable is the only window in the building, while in the west is the small doorway. The building, which is now one of the national monuments of the Emerald Isle, has recently been restored to perfect condition.

The rainfall of a village among the hills of Assam, during ten weeks this year, was 250 inches. The village is Cherrapunji, the rainiest spot in Asia and presumably in the world. Cherrapunji stands on a plateau, overlooking the plain of Sylhet, and it is 4,455 feet above sea level.—Westminster Gazette.

MYSTERY OF THE HOUSEHOLD

Disappearance and Return of Lady's Summer Dress Couldn't Be Laid to the Servant.

Up spoke the woman who likes to keep her apartment in order:

"A household mystery happens once in awhile," she said "I had one a few days ago about a summer dress that I bought last fall when the weather was too cold to wear it I packed it away and forgot about it until the other day. Then I went to the box in a certain closet where I knew I had put it The dress wasn't there I looked through the rest of the closet without any better success. Then I got excited and turned everything upside down everywhere that I thought it could be Finally I went into the storeroom and looked through all the trunks. Not a sign of it. So I had to give it up.

"Later my servant brought me a box which had come up the dumb waiter. Inside was my dress. There wasn't a mark on the box to show that it belonged to me. The only explanation I could think of was that some one had taken it, found that it didn't fit and had decided to return it."

"It never occurred to you, did it, that that some one could have been your servant?" she was asked.

"No. It didn't," said she with a smile. "You see, he's a Jap."—New York Sun

Myth Concerning the Salamander.

Newts and salamanders are pretty much like frogs and toads, only they have a tail and look like a lizard, and then in some breeds the pair of hind legs are small and in others lacking Salamanders often get into old rotten logs and if put on the fire run out without being hurt in many cases, because they are more or less damp and may not actually pass through much fire. But folk think a salamander is right at home in the fire.

English Hermit's Strange Life.

There died, the other day, at the age of eighty-two, a hermit named Lewis, who for the last 20 years has existed on shellfish and lived in his covered trawler, beached at Lower Fishguard. He never varied his dietary, except when shellfish was scarce, and then he substituted bread and cheese. To within two days of his death he was in robust health.—London Answers.

The Blushing Octopus.

The octopus frequently changes its color, like a marine cameleon It would appear, from recent studies of the creature, that the colored pigment whereby this change in color is effected is contained in envelopes in its skin, in the tissues of which are muscular fibers actuated by nerves Should these fibers become relaxed a dark pigment appears. The phenomenon is said to be analogous to blushing.—Harper's Weekly.

Misuse of Via.

A stroll through the shipping district gives many a wrench to the purist's soul "In front of all the commission houses," he said, "I see bales and barrels labeled 'via boat' or 'via train.' Why does not somebody tell the shipping clerks that every time they write that they are insulting the English and every other language? 'Via' can be applied properly only to the place through which a parcel passes, not to the means of transportation."

Something About Names.

A person will grow to look like and be like his or her name. Algernons and Reginalds of modern times look the part, and owe a deep debt of ingratitude to their parents. A young man named Harold or Montmorency would be justified in hiring an automobile and running over his aged parents as they are attempting to cross the street on the way home from church—New York Times.

Few There Are Who Learn Wisdom.

A Chicago woman tried to undo a hard knot in her dress by burning it. She succeeded in exactly the same swift, comprehensive way in which the reluctant morning fire is started with kerosene. So few are the wise people who learn from experience of the foolish ones.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal and co-ordinate jurisdiction, composed of three judges each. The said courts in Philadelphia shall be designated respectively as the court of common pleas number one, number two, number three, number four, and number five, but the number of said courts may be by law increased from time to time, and shall be in like manner designated by successive numbers. The number of judges in any of said courts, or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three, such three judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid which shall be numbered as one aforesaid, in Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the several courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law.

In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of said court shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

"Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law, but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation," so as to read as follows:—

Would Be Rid of Undesirables.

Ambassadors from a besieged town were treating with Alexander the Great on the terms of surrender. Alexander ordered that Acuphis, the eldest of the ambassadors, should be the governor of the town, and that he should send immediately as hostages 100 of the best citizens. Acuphis then smilingly observed: "Sire, I could govern better if thou wouldst permit me to send thee 100 of the worst citizens instead of 100 of the best."

The Largest Bird's Eggs.

The largest known bird's egg is that of the extinct aepyornis of Madagascar, of which the museum of New York has now a specimen. It has a capacity of two gallons, measures 26 inches round the middle, and the shell is one-eighth of an inch thick. The largest egg of a living bird is that of the ostrich, which is equal to about thirty-six hens' eggs.

Dissolving Alum.

When alum is intended for external use, where it is purposely to callous the flesh, as in the case of fever blisters and heated or even frost-bitten feet, if it is dissolved in alcohol it will be twice as effective. The alcohol is quickly absorbed by the flesh, carries some of the dissolved alum with it, and, therefore, less applications will be required to achieve the desired results.

DODGE THE POSTAGE STAMP

Any man who can devise a practical substitute for the postage stamp will deserve the gratitude of every large business house in the world, and may earn a large fortune. For the labor of affixing stamps to their enormous mail necessitates in some firms the employment of a special clerical staff.

In the postoffices of some countries steps in this direction have already been taken. Here, for instance, newspapers and magazines are mailed by their publishers in bulk without stamps, and the postage is paid in a lump sum of one cent a pound. Then, again, some firms that send out large quantities of circulars register themselves under a certain number at the postoffice, their envelopes are printed with this number and the circulars so mailed are paid for in bulk. In Bavaria large consignments of letters may merely be postmarked by machinery and sent without stamps, the postage fee being paid in a lump sum at the time of mailing. It is said that since February 1, 1910, this system has saved the Bavarian postoffice the expense for paper and the printing cost for 10,000,000 stamps.

A writer in the Umschau, a German publication, suggests a further development of this system along the lines of a meter, like those used for water, gas and electricity, in which the letters would be placed and automatically stamped with a postmark, the machine recording each letter so mailed. These machines would be inspected periodically and the bills collected, just as are those of the consumer of gas or water.

HAD NO PERMIT FOR DOGGIE

So the Woman Dropped Her Pet Off the Car and Resumed Her Seat.

The little woman with the laundry blue and gangrenous green flowers on her hat all scrambled up into a Wilton rug design got on the car carrying a dog. It was one of those aristocratic, foolish-looking dogs that couldn't overtake a Welsh rabbit.

"Got a permit for that dawg?" asked the conductor when he came around for the woman's fare. "Haven't? Then you'll have to get off the car."

"Well, I'll not get off the car," retorted the woman.

The woman got up, dog under one arm, as if to get off. But as she rose she repeated: "I'll not get off. So there!"

Still, she walked to the rear platform as if in contradiction of her own assertion. The conductor was ready to signal the motorman to stop.

But the woman had declared she wasn't going to get off, and she intended to keep her word. She poised the dog carefully in her palms, tossed him off into the street, at the same time bidding him "Go home!"

Then she came back into the car and dropped languidly into her seat with a bored tilt to her face.

Buttermilk for Gout.

If you are troubled with gout you should drink at least one quart of buttermilk a day. It is said to have the property of keeping various salts dissolved in the blood and thus is useful in gout. It promotes the circulation.

Economical Housewife.

While a Boston man was in Vermont he went to dinner with a friend who has some political aspirations. As they came in the door he heard the woman of the house say to the hired girl: "I see Mr. Jones has some one with him to dinner. Take those two big potatoes down to the cellar and bring up three small ones."

Endurance Tests.

"I kind of wish," remarked the government employe, "that they'd give me another kind of an endurance test." "You want physical exertion?" "Yes. I wish that for a change they'd let me see how many miles I can ride on horseback instead of how many hours I can sit at a desk."

Town Owns Herring Brook.

[illegible] Mass., owns a herring brook, and at the town meeting every year, following an old custom, a committee is elected by ballot to catch the fish and dispose of them. The proceeds are turned into the town treasury.

Pathetic Cries of Quadrupeds.

Coming to quadrupeds, the cries of none approach more closely that of the human voice than those of seals when lamenting the loss of their young. The cry of a wounded hare resembles that of a child in distress.

Never Drink Water.

In Lower California a large number of the smaller desert mammals never drink water according to American scientists who have recently visited the peninsula. They live and thrive on dry seeds and scraps of vegetation in places where the heat and aridity are excessive without ever touching their lips to water, and it has even been [illegible] possible to teach some of them to take water in captivity.

LIVERY STABLE STOCK IN VENICE!

IF a man of ordinary intelligence were approached by an affable stranger and urged to buy stock in a livery stable in Venice, he would in all likelihood feel insulted. He would have reason to be, for such an offer would be a reflection on his intelligence.

For instance: A clothier has a line of suits near the end of the season that he desires to close out. He advertises them at a sharp reduction. Compared with what he paid for them and what he sold them for at the opening of the season, they are a bargain. The public does not want the suits at that particular time at any price, and the clothier, not getting the results, makes a deduction that advertising doesn't pay, and ceases to advertise.

In the meantime the big department store in the nearest city is flooding the newspapers with cuts and descriptions of nifty ties, collars, marked down shirts that are good at any time, seasonable underwear at special prices that is needed to fill in between times.

The local dealer is disappointed because people won't buy stock in a livery stable in Venice; and loses the sale of other stocks that might be practicable.

The department store in the city gets the trade because it knows that the ordinary person has no use for something he does not need at that particular time.

The business man who never gets advertising to produce results are the Micawbers of trade—always waiting for something to turn up. The man who knows how to advertise, and tries to sell the people something they want, WHEN THEY WANT IT and not to unload what he doesn't want—turns something up.

An Incident of the Road.

"That's what they all say," said the man in the road, climbing into the car. "You can tell your story to the magistrate at Hinktown—jest seven miles up the road. Start along, please."

"Much obliged for the lift," said he. "You can settle that matter of speed with the magistrate if you want to. As a stranger in these here parts I don't think my word would go for much."

Not the Conservatory.

Young Lady—The Musical conservatory is in this building, isn't it?

Janitor—No, mum; the Musical conservatory is 'bout two blocks down street.

Young lady, dubiously—I—I was sure I heard pupils practicing vocal exercises. Are you sure the Musical conservatory is not here?

Exquisite Elegy Tribute to Friend.

The early death of Keats robbed Shelley of a dear friend, but led to the writing of the exquisite elegy "Adonais," and it is rather touching to recall that when Shelley was drowned, a year and a half later, a copy of Keats' poems was found open in his coat pocket when his body was washed ashore.

MINING TERRITORY WILD AND WOOLLY

The mining towns in the vicinity of Burgettstown furnished all kinds of excitement Monday. At the Lake Erie there was a good sized riot in which an unknown negro was seriously injured. Cherry Valley furinshed a free for all fight in which several people were injured, and at Francis mines a miner was so severely cut as to render surgical aid necessary. Alcohol was back of the trouble in each case.

Noiseless Furniture.

Irritating noises can be avoided by taking some old felt hats, cutting out from these disks about the size of a quarter and securely fastening them to the bottoms of the legs of all chairs, tables and other movable articles not provided with casters. This also prevents the scratching of polished floors.

PURLOINING CAUSES TROUBLE

Elco Man is Charged With Theft of Wine and Razors

Charged with purloinging a keg of wine, several razors and some stuff to eat from the family larder and home of Samuel Leonard of Long Branch borough, Ben Brierly of Elco is languishing in the county jail.Ben it is alleged, started out on a foraging expedition Sunday night, and the residence of Mr. Leonard seemed to afford the easiest picking. The swag was gotten away with all right, but suspicion pointed in the direction of Brierly, and he was arrested.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. G. Lowers, Brierly was committed to jail in default of bail to await the action of the grand jury. He was taken to the borough bastile Tuesday.

TRADE IS SUSPENDED

Packet I. C. Woodward is Tied up in Winter Quarters

Packet trade on the Monongahela river between Pittsburg, Brownsville, Morgantown and Fairmont, W. Va. has been suspended and the packet I. C. Woodward tied up. As a means of rapid transportation the railroads have superseded the steamboat. A few years ago the packet trade along the Monongahela valley was all important but new developments, the construction of new railroads and the necessity of freight handlers to have merchandise transported more rapidly than can be done by the river together with the irregularity of steamers coming and going has meant a gradual falling off of business for the steamboat men.

PACKARD MADE BIG HIT AT CHAUTAUQUA

A number of Charleroi people saw Alton B. Packard, the cartoonist to appear here tonight at Chautauqua last summer. He made a great hit at the popular summer resort, where an entertainer has to be exceptionally good to even be regarded as passable. Mr. Packard drew a big audience there in the immense amphitheatre and ably demonstrated his ability to entertain. He will appear at School Hall tonight at 8 o'clock and indications are that he will be greeted by a full house.

SUPREME COURT DECLARES CITY NOT THIRD CLASS

Connellsville is not a third class city, acording to a decision handed down Tuesday by Justice J. Hay Brown of the Supreme court, sitting at Pittsburg. The Fayette County court was sustained in refusing a mandamus on the county commissioners compelling them to print the names of candidates at the last primary election.

In Praise of Poetry.

The old hymn says: "Religion never was designed to make our pleasures less," and the same thing ought to be said about poetry. The distaste for poetry arises from the habit of treating it as if it were only a more difficult kind of prose. . . . The prosaic commentary obscures the beauty of the text.—C. M. Crothers.

Sacrifice Not His.

Note in the Ceylon Independent: "Dear Sir—Mudaliyar Harry Jayawardana has evidently forgotten that he handed me his hat at the cremation of the late high priest. I am sorry I failed to inform him before that, carried away by the sentiment of the moment, I flung it to the burning pyre, hoping for future merit. May the merit be his, as he was the owner of the hat!"

Undecipherable.

"Do you know anything about Euripides?" asked the erudite relative. "A little," replied the young man with nerve. "And what are your impressions?" "Well, what I have seen of his stuff convinces me that he wrote a mighty poor hand."

Bees Broke Up Church Services.

A unique occurrence broke up the service in the German Lutheran church at Chicago the other Sunday. A swarm of honey bees invaded the building and drove out the pastor and congregation, and services had to be held on the lawn in front of the church.

GET NEW INDUSTRY

Washington Board of Trade Lands Manufacturing Concern

Through the efforts of the board of trade a new industry has been secured for Washington. This is the Topliff-Ely company, which manufactures small express wagons, go-carts and wire novelties. The plant which has been in business at Elyria, Ohio, for nearly 50 years will employ about 75 men. The company desired to expand its business, and the board of trade secured its removal to the county seat by arranging to guarantee a loan for that purpose. The project was first thoroughly investigated and approved by the executive committee.

NEW KIND OF SHADE

Lot of Norway Maples to Arrive Latter Part of Week

ORDERED BY CITIZENS

Shade trees ordered in lot by a number of citizens through a special committee composed of Borough Clerk Ira L. Nickeson, William Kirk and W. D. Pollock are expected to arrive the latter part of this week and will be delivered at once. M. Wilson, who represents the nursery concern supplying the trees received the contract, and he will collect for them upon delivery. The kind ordered were from 8 to 10 feet and will cost 65 cents apiece.

The trees ordered are of the Norway Maple variety. They grow rapidly and are not destructive to sewers as are the Carolina Poplars, which they displace. The committee was appointed at the petition of certain property holders in the borough and they received orders for trees. The borough is still engaged in the work of removing the obnoxious Carolina Poplars, where property holders so desire, free of cost.

STATE POLICE MAY BE CALLED UPON TO PATROL THE VALLEY

Force of Constabulary to be Transferred From Marianna--Will Make Headquarters at Monongahela

It is stated that the requests of the citizens of Monongahela who have been terrorized by a series of murders and robberies for a detatchment of the State Constabulary has borne fruit, and that Capt. Adams of Company A. located at Greensburg, will comply with the request. He has made arrangements for the transfer of three troopers from Marianna to Monongahela, who, is is said, will be located at the home of I. W. Steele.

The troopers, it is stated, will patrol the whole valley, as it is outside of the boroughs where the most of the lawlessness takes place. Monongahela is fairly well policed, as are all the other incorporated towns of any size in the valley, and the presence of the troopers in the townships will be much to prevent a recurrence of the crimes that have been committed lately. Since being located at Marianna the troopers have had a decided reterrent effect on the lawlessness that formerly prevailed in that community.

Daylight Marauders Enter Manown Dwelling and Scour Premises for Valuables--Two Masked Men Committed Deed

Following close on the heels of the numerous other crimes in the reign of lawlessness which has prevailed in that section, a holdup was committed at Manown Tuesday morning which for boldness and daring was of the typical wild west order. Manown is a small mining town across the river from Monongahela, the inhabitants of which are mostly foreigners. The victim of the robbery was Mrs. John Sadinski, who in her own home was covered with a revolver by two masked men, who ransacked the house, securing a sum of money and a gold watch.

While in the pursuit of her household duties in the morning shortly after her husband entered the mine where he is employed, Mrs. Sadinski was suddenly confronted by a masked man who had entered the house silently through the open door. He poked a revolver in the woman's face and gave her to understand that any outcry or noise on her part would imperil her life. A companion, also masked, began ransacking the house, and after he had secured a gold watch and a sum of money which the woman was hoarding for family use, the men decamped.

Frightened almost into hysterics Mrs. Sadinski gave the alarm as soon as she dared, but the men had had ample time to escape. The authorities were notified, but have no clue as to the identity of the robbers.

PETITIONS FOR IMPROVED ROAD

Peters Township Citizens to Seek Aid of State Commissioner Bigelow

J. H. Gillespie, James A. Bell and Davis Rees, supervisors of Peters township, filed a petition this week with the commissioners for the improvement by the State of a road in Peters township. The road begins at Snodgrass and passes through Thompsonville and ending at Allegheny county line. C. O. Regester, president of the Centerville council and William Bailey, burgess also filed state petitions for a road in that borough. The road begins 300 feet south of the Griffiths bridge road leading from Beallsville to Centerville, via Coal Center and extending southward to its intersection with the National pike.

TELLS OF WORK IN FAR WEST

Rev. L. F. Athey Gives Lecture at Methodist Episcopal Church

On a trip to the East to raise funds with which to continue the building of a church in the district in New Mexico, where he is laboring for the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. L. F. Athey, a Methodist minister lectured at the Methodist Episcopal church here Tuesday evening on the subject "Missionary Life in the Far West, or Experiences of a Tenderfoot." After the lecture a silver offering was taken and this money will be added to the fund being collected by Rev. Athey.

In opening his lecture Rev. Athey told of his work in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia before he went west. He settled in Oklahoma and took an active part in the fight for State-wide Prohibition, and told of the battle which the temperance people had made, and the glorious success they had attained. From Oklahoma Rev. Athey went to New Mexico. He described his experiences there in a picturesque manner. In the town to which he went there were 500 people, with no churches. There were five saloons. People live as they can, as money is scarce. Many of the characters with whom he came in contact, Rev. Athey, stated, were of the roughest class. He told of his success and hopes to build a church, having already raised $500 among the people of the town for the work. Stories and ancedotes served to make his talk most interesting.

People of Burgettstown Up in Arms Against Newly Formed Club

The organization of a lodge of the order of Owls at Burgettstown has stirred up a hot fight in that community. Burgettstown is a "dry" community, and the institution of an order which maintains a club is regarded by the people there as a move to introduce the liquor traffic in their midst Some of the ministers have "taken hot shots" at the order, and some newspaper controversy has added zest to the fray.

TO MAKE CAMPAIGN

GOOD SPEAKERS COMING

Like their Republican brethren, the fusionists are planning for an aggressive campaign in the county, and have secured some noted spellbinders to make addresses. James R. Garfield, of Ohio, a son of the late President Garfield, is said to have consented to make an address in Washington county at some meeting to be arranged later. Hon. Clyde Kelley of Braddock, the well known insurgent of the Legislature at the last session has also been secured.

The first of a series of meetings is scheduled to take place at Washington Friday night. Mr. Kelley will be the chief speaker, and others will be on hand. Rufus Marriner, Esq., it is stated, will make an auto tour of the county, and will speak at all the principal centers during the campaign. It is stated that arrangements are being made by the various candidates to work together, and to cover as much territory as possible.

McCarrell is Hopeful.

Robert L. McCarrell of East Washington, the Democratic-Keystone nominee for county treasurer, was in town Tuesday evening. With S. M. Downer of Monongahela, the Republican candidate as an opponent Mr. McCarrell realizes that he has a hard fight in prospect with odds against him, but like all candidates he finds encouragement on every hand.

SARVER CASE WILL BE HEARD IN ALLEGHENY

TWENTY-TWO IN JAIL

While 22 of his fellow members of the noted "Alcohol Gang" of Monongahela are serving out their sentences in the county jail at Washington John W. "Shocky" Sarver, the alleged murdered of Joshua Wyeth, is languishing in the Allegheny county jail, awaiting the time when he will be called upon to appear before the court to answer the charge of manslaughter. Sarver will not be brought back to Washington county for trial, as it was stated a day or so ago, but will appear before the Allegheny county tribunal.

Sarver has engaged as his attorney Vernon Hazzard, Esq., of Monongahela. It is believed that he will be called upon to appear before the court some time next week. He has been insistent that he rid not intend to kill Wyeth.

Five more victims of the raid of the "Alcohol Gang" were lodged in the county jail Tuesday. These newest recruits to the ranks of the river undesirables now in durance vile are William Louttit, Charles Hilton, Jacob Nichol, Charles Swanger and Pete Shovelin. Mayor Isler sentenced them to 60 days in jail for disorderly conduct.

One of the members of the gang now in jail at Washington said of the alleged murderer: "We had gotten a half gallon of whiskey and a keg of beer and gone across the river from Monongahela. We were having a good time when the trouble occurred between Wyeth and Sarver. Then the blow was struck with the beer bottle. Of course we all wanted to get away. I rolled down the hill, because I knew I couldn't walk."

Monongahela is now happily free from the undesirable outfit. Carousing, making of a peaceful community an unregenerate locality, the "Alcohol Gang" bred crimes and developed criminals. With the late murder, there has been a decided sentiment to do away with the kind of lawless behavior which has heretofore been tolerated, and as evidence of the good intentions of the authorities is the presence of the 22 characters in jail.

PROHIB CANDIDATE QUITS THE RACE

Emory Snyder of Bentleyville, who was nominated by the Phohibitionists at the recent primary for prothonotary has filed at the clerk of court's office a notice of withdrawal. This leaves the fight between but two candidates, Dr. A. V. Lewis of Donora, Republican and Joe B. Martin of California, Democratic-Keystone.

DIRECT PRIMARIES.

Commending upon the beneficient provisions of the direct primary election law, which was given a severe test throughout the State at the recent nominating election on September 30, the Philadelphia Press says:

"The direct primary method of nominating candidates for elective offices has made remarkable progress in a few years. Since the movement began it has been steadily advanced no step taken having been backward. The recent primaries in this city and State gave our own system the severest test it has had since it was enacted in 1906, and it justified itself. The one complaint and a reasonable one, is that there are too many candidates to be voted for; that some of the offices now filled by popular election could be quite as well provided for by appointment. This is a matter that inevitably will be adjusted in time, and is desirable if for no other reason than that it would give the voter at the primaries a better opportunity to consider the selection of candidates for the more important offices, not having to waste time on a multitude of nominations of little consequence.

"The primary laws of the different States, where such have been adopted, are by no means uniform, and cannot be expected to be. But all are coming to some direct nomination system. Masachusetts this year has such a method for the first time, covering all offices. New York, after a long struggle, has adopted the direct primary for the nomination of all candidates except those for State offices. While the act was despoiled of many of its good features by Tammany influences it is accepted as an advance in so far as it recognizes and establishes the direct primary principle.

"In the East the direct primary has now been adopted in one form or another, in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and practically in Maryland. These do not include the nomination of candidates for State offices except in New Jersey, but do nominate candidates for other offices. West of the Mississippi all States, except Colorado, Montana, Minnesota, Utah and Wyoming, have mandatory laws covering all State nominations, and in Minnesota the law requires the nomination at the direct primary of all candidates except [illegible] voted for by the State at large, a law similar to that of Pennsylvania.

"State wide primaries are provided also in Wisconsin, Michigan and Illinois, the latter State having succeeded in securing a primary law after the fourth attempt. Ohio has a modified law not very different from that of this State, while Maine, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Indiana and Delaware have optional systems of direct nominations applying only to certain offices or localities. In all the States of the South, except North Carolina, which provides for State offices and for United States Senators are nominated by the direct vote of the people. In the summing up it is found that Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Montana, West Virginia and Vermont are the only States which have not in some way introduced the direct primary. In West Virginia the subject is under general discussion, and action is not likely to be long delayed.

"That the principle of nomination by direct vote will ultimately prevail throughout the country cannot be doubted. The system will not have the same application everywhere, but the sound policy of giving the people the right to make nominations by their own votes direct and being responsible therefor, is certain to be established and once tried the system remains."

GOOD MOVE.

The statement that a detachment of the State Constabulary will be located at Monongahela with instructions to patrol the whole valley will be received with general satisfaction. The outbreak of lawlessness that has taken place lately in the vicinity of Monongahela calls for summary action, and as the archaic system of police protection in the townships are never adequate in cases where a large cosmopolitan population exists, it is necessary to have additional aid.

This duty of the State Constabulary should be the chief aim and object of that body. Instead of being quartered in barracks they should be detailed in pairs to patrol the townships where more police protection is needed. That was supposed to be the real function of the body when the law creating it was enacted. Instead the constabulary is used chiefly to take the place of the State militia, a duty by the way, which the latter body performs infinitely better than the militia, but nevertheless one which should not be encroached upon so long as the military arm is maintained. If the latter body is found to be ineffective it should be disbanded and the constabulary increased. To maintain the militia purely for encampment and display purposes is rather an expensive luxury.

Inasmuch as life and property in Western Pennsylvania are not nearly so safe now as in pioneer times, when Indians and wild beasts menaced the inhabitants, more and better means of protection should be afforded. The constabulary as a police force is unexcelled and there can be no valid objection to it when it performs this service.

Allegheny County Presbyterians have formed a corporation to fight the whiskey interests. This is a case of where the results will be awaited with interest.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"With all due allowances for the alleged evils of hat gigantic octopus known as the Standard Oil company, one is forced to take off his hat to their business methods," said a prominent coal operator of this section, while discussing trust methods and similar topics the other evening. "Thanks to John D. Rockefeller's old-fashioned ideas of business the Standard has never had to resort to the frenzied method of financing in order to increase its holdings or acquire new interests. This concern always did business in the proper way—that is saved money and put it in a strong box, and consequently always had a reserve fund to use in sudden emergencies.

"None of the other big concerns do this. For instance, you notice that when the United States Steel corporation buys 7,000 acres of coal lands in this valley from the River combine, bonds to the amount of the purchase price—$18,000,000—are issued against the property and a mortgage placed to secure them, and the big Steel company guarantees the interest. In other words the concern that bought the coal didn't have the ready money to pay for it, but mortgaged the property and must pay interest until the bonds can be liquidated during a long term of years.

"Had the Standard Oil company bought this property it would have paid spot cash, taking the money of its reserve which is compounding interest through the banking system inaugurated by the Standard. Thus it would have saved the five per cent interest on the $18,000,000 which will have to be paid for a period of perhaps from twenty to thirty years. That is the way the Standard makes money so rapidly by being able to do business at all times on strictly business principles.

"It is stated that the Standard people can command from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 in spot cash at any time it sees fit. It is always ready to build tanks and pipe a new oil field at a moment's notice. No other concern exists that can do this, that has the capital and experienced people at its command ready at all times to [illegible] a new field in Pennsylvania, Texas, Kansas, Alaska, Hawaii or anywhere else. That is another reason why the Standard gets in at the start in all new oil fields. It has the capital and outfit to take care of the oil, which is equivalent, as a magazine writer expressed it, of taking over gold dollars at 70 cents from the owners who want to sell. It requires a reserve fund of millions and millions of dollars as well as an army of highly trained men, and no one else but the Standard is able to do this, as the organization has been an evolution instead of an achievement.

"But the foundation of it all is strict business methods and an avoidance of debt. The Standard doesn't have any big bond issues to eat up profits, and it has one of the most highly developed systems of finance to take care of and increase its profits and reserves. It makes money where other big corporations lose, and its profits in turn make more profit, and all because it does business as business ought to be done by all corporations and individuals."

HARD BATTLE FOR THE DOG

Sport Killed the Big Bob Cat, but He Suffered Severely In the Combat.

After a battle in which he came near meeting death himself, Sport, a medium sized coach dog, the property of W. M. Butterbaugh, a rancher living in Lemps Gulch, Idaho, killed a bob cat that measured six feet from nose to tip of tail.

The dog was terribly scratched and bitten and has not yet entirely recovered. He was mauled by the long, sharp claws of the big cat and in some places the scratches are deep, digging clear to the bone. The cat would weigh half again as much as the dog, and towered above him in height.

Mr. Butterbaugh did not see the fight but arrived on the scene shortly after the dog had killed the cat and found his faithful friend lying on the ground, unable to move, and scarcely living. It looked at the time like a bad case but he succeeded in reviving the animal back to life.

"For some days we had been missing chickens," Mr. Butterbaugh said, "and I was unable to figure out what was killing them. I would get up in the morning and find one or two lying dead in the barnyard, still warm, and I could not tell what sort of an animal was doing the mischief.

"But Sport figured it out, and one morning I heard him take out after something. I got up as soon as I could and followed up the gulch, expecting that they would take that trail. When I got there I found the dog lying on the ground and the big cat dead.

"The dog had chased him up there, but the cat had turned on him and shown fight. They must have fought there 15 minutes before the battle was settled. And from the looks of both the cat and the dog it must have been a terrible battle."

An Incident of the Road.

"That's all nonsense," retorted Blinks, bringing his car to a standstill.

"That's what they all say," said the man in the road, climbing into the car. "You can tell your story to the magistrate at Hinktown—just seven miles up the road. Start along, please."

"Much obliged for the lift," said he. "You can settle that matter of speed with the magistrate if you want to. As a stranger in these here parts I don't think my word would go for much."

Gem of Ancient Architecture.

The Oratory of Gallerus, situated on the Dingle promontory in Kerry, is probably the oldest place of Christian worship in the United Kingdom. It is unique in its architecture for it was built without mortar, and the arch was formed direct from the ground level by the peculiar placing of the stones. In the east gable is the only window in the building while in the west is the small doorway. The building, which is now one of the national monuments of the Emerald Isle, has recently been restored to perfect condition.

A Rainfall of 450 Inches.

The rainfall of a village among the hills of Assam, during ten weeks this year was 250 inches. The village is Cherrapunji, the rainiest spot in Asia and presumably in the world. Its annual rainfall is something over 450 inches—say, fifteen times as much as London. Cherrapunji stands on a plateau, overlooking the plain of Sylhet, and it is 4,455 feet above sea level.—Westminster Gazette.

Beginning of Christian Era.

In the year 391 of our era Theodosius the Great issued an edict abolishing paganism and idolatry throughout the Roman empire.

CAUSES SICKNESS

Good Health Impossible with a Disordered Stomach

There is nothing that will create sickness or cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

MYSTERY OF THE HOUSEHOLD

Disappearance and Return of Lady's Summer Dress Couldn't Be Laid to the Servant.

Up spoke the woman who likes to keep her apartment in order:

"A household mystery happens once in awhile," she said. "I had one a few days ago about a summer dress that I bought last fall when the weather was too cold to wear it. I packed it away and forgot about it until the other day. Then I went to the box in a certain closet where I knew I had put it. The dress wasn't there. I looked through the rest of the closet without any better success. Then I got excited and turned everything upside down everywhere that I thought it could be. Finally I went into the storeroom and looked through all the trunks. Not a sign of it. So I had to give it up.

"Later my servant brought me a box which had come up the dumb waiter. Inside was my dress. There wasn't a mark on the box to show that it belonged to me. The only explanation I could think of was that some one had taken it, found that it didn't fit and had decided to return it."

"It never occurred to you, did it, that that some one could have been your servant?" she was asked.

Myth Concerning the Salamander.

Newts and salamanders are pretty much like frogs and toads, only they have a tail and look like a lizard, and then in some breeds the pair of hind legs are small and in others lacking. Salamanders often get into old rotten logs and if put on the fire run out without being hurt in many cases, because they are more or less damp and may not actually pass through much fire. But folk think a salamander is right at home in the fire.

English Hermit's Strange Life.

There died the other day, at the age of eighty-two, a hermit named Lewis, who for the last 20 years has existed on shellfish and lived in his covered trawler, beached at Lower Fishguard. He never varied his dietary, except when shellfish was scarce, and then he substituted bread and cheese. To within two days of his death he was in robust health.—London Answers.

The Blushing Octopus.

The octopus frequently changes its color, like a marine cameleon. It would appear, from recent studies of the creature, that the colored pigment whereby this change in color is effected is contained in envelopes in its skin, in the tissues of which are muscular fibers actuated by nerves. Should these fibers become relaxed a dark pigment appears. The phenomenon is said to be analogous to blushing.—Harper's Weekly.

Misuse of Via.

A stroll through the shipping district gives many a wrench to the purist's soul. "In front of all the commission houses," he said, "I see bales and barrels labeled 'via boat' or 'via train.' Why does not somebody tell the shipping clerks that every time they write that they are insulting the English and every other language? 'Via' can be applied properly only to the place through which a parcel passes, not to the means of transportation."

Something About Names.

A person will grow to look like and be like his or her name. Algernons and Reginalds of modern times look the part, and owe a deep debt of ingratitude to their parents. A young man named Harold or Montmorency would be justified in hiring an automobile and running over his aged parents as they are attempting to cross the street on the way home from church.—New York Times.

Few There Are Who Learn Wisdom.

A Chicago woman tried to undo a hard knot in her dress by burning it. She succeeded in exactly the same swift, comprehensive way in which the reluctant morning fire is started with kerosene. So few are the wise people who learn from experience of the foolish ones.

Number One.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so as to consolidate the courts of common pleas of Allegheny County.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal and co-ordinate jurisdiction, composed of three judges each. The said courts in Philadelphia shall be designated respectively as the court of common pleas number one, number two, number three, number four, and number five but the number of said courts may be by law increased from time to time, and shall be in like manner designated by successive numbers. The number of judges in any of said courts or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three such judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid which shall be numbered as aforesaid. In Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the several courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law.

In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of said court shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

Section 1. Amendment to Article Nine, Section Eight.

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of the assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time upon such valuation," so as to read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of the assessed valuation may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time upon such valuation, except that debt or debts hereinafter incurred by the city and county of Philadelphia for the construction and development of subways for transit purposes or for the construction of wharves and docks or reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks as public improvements owned by said city and county of Philadelphia, and which shall yield to the city and county of Philadelphia current revenue in excess of the interest [illegible] annual payments necessary for the cancellation of said debt or debts, may be excluded in ascertaining the power of the city and county of Philadelphia to become otherwise indebted: Provided, That a sinking fund for their cancellation be established and maintained.

Would Be Rid of Undesirables.

Ambassadors from a besieged town were treating with Alexander the Great on the terms of surrender. Alexander ordered that Acuphis, the eldest of the ambassadors, should be the governor of the town, and that he should send immediately as hostages 100 of the best citizens Acuphis then smilingly observed: "Sire, I could govern better if thou wouldst permit me to send thee 100 of the worst citizens instead of 100 of the best."

Extraordinary Eggs.

The largest known bird's egg is that of the extinct aepyornis of Madagascar, of which the museum of New York has now a specimen. It has a capacity of two gallons, measures 26 inches round the middle, and the shell is one-eighth of an inch thick. The largest egg of a living bird is that of the ostrich, which is equal to about thirty-six hens' eggs.

Dissolving Alum.

When alum is intended for external use, where it is purposely to callous the flesh, as in the case of fever blisters and heated or even frost-bitten feet, if it is dissolved in alcohol it will be twice as effective. The alcohol is quickly absorbed by the flesh, carries some of the dissolved alum with it, and, therefore, less applications will be required to achieve the desired results.

DODGE THE POSTAGE STAMP

Any man who can devise a practical substitute for the postage stamp will deserve the gratitude of every large business house in the world, and may earn a large fortune. For the labor of affixing stamps to their enormous mail necessitates in some firms the employment of a special clerical staff.

In the postoffices of some countries steps in this direction have already been taken. Here, for instance, newspapers and magazines are mailed by their publishers in bulk without stamps, and the postage is paid in a lump sum of one cent a pound. Then, again, some firms that send out large quantities of circulars register themselves under a certain number at the postoffice, their envelopes are printed with this number and the circulars so mailed are paid for in bulk. In Bavaria large consignments of letters may merely be postmarked by machinery and sent without stamps, the postage fee being paid in a lump sum at the time of mailing. It is said that since February 1, 1910, this system has saved the Bavarian postoffice the expense for paper and the printing cost for 10,000,000 stamps.

A writer in the Umschau, a German publication, suggests a further development of this system along the lines of a meter, like those used for water, gas and electricity, in which the letters would be placed and automatically stamped with a postmark, the machine recording each letter so mailed. These machines would be inspected periodically and the bills collected, just as are those of the consumer of gas or water.

HAD NO PERMIT FOR DOGGIE

The little woman with the laundry blue and gangrenous green flowers on her hat all scrambled up into a Wilton rug design got on the car carrying a dog. It was one of those aristocratic, foolish-looking dogs that couldn't overtake a Welsh rabbit.

"Got a permit for that dawg?" asked the conductor when he came around for the woman's fare. "Haven't? Then you'll have to get off the car."

The woman got up, dog under one arm, as if to get off. But as she rose she repeated: "I'll not get off. So there!"

Still, she walked to the rear platform as if in contradiction of her own assertion. The conductor was ready to signal the motorman to stop.

But the woman had declared she wasn't going to get off, and she intended to keep her word. She poised the dog carefully in her palms, tossed him off into the street, at the same time bidding him "Go home!"

Then she came back into the car and dropped languidly into her seat with a bored tilt to her face.

Buttermilk for Gout.

If you are troubled with gout you should drink at least one quart of buttermilk a day. It is said to have the property of keeping various salts dissolved in the blood and thus is useful in gout. It promotes the circulation.

Economical Housewife.

While a Boston man was in Vermont he went to dinner with a friend who has some political aspirations. As they came in the door he heard a woman of the house say to the serving girl: "I see Mr. Jones has some folks with him to dinner. Take those two big potatoes down to the cellar and bring up three small ones."

Endurance Tests.

"I kind of wish," remarked the government employe, "that they'd give me another kind of an endurance test." "You want physical exertion?" "Yes. I wish that for a change they'd let me see how many miles I can ride on horseback instead of how many hours I can sit at a desk."

Town Owns Herring Brook.

[illegible] Mass., owns a herring brook, and at the town meeting every year, following an old custom, a committee is elected by ballot to catch the fish and dispose of them. The proceeds are turned into the town treasury.

Pathetic Cries of Quadrupeds.

Coming to quadrupeds, the cries of none approach more closely that of the human voice than those of seals when lamenting the loss of their young. The cry of a wounded hare resembles that of a child in distress.

Never Drink Water.

In Lower California a large number of the smaller desert mammals never drink water, according to American scientists who have recently visited the peninsula. They live and thrive on dry seeds and scrape of vegetation in places where the heat and aridity are excessive without ever touching their lips to water, and it has even been found impossible to teach some of them to take water in captivity.

LIVERY STABLE STOCK IN VENICE!

If a man of ordinary intelligence were approached by an affable stranger and urged to buy stock in a livery stable in Venice, he would in all likelihood feel insulted. He would have reason to be, for such an offer would be a reflection on his intelligence.

For instance: A clothier has a line of suits near the end of the season that he desires to close out. He advertises them at a sharp reduction. Compared with what he paid for them and what he sold them for at the opening of the season, they are a bargain. The public does not want the suits at that particular time at any price, and the clothier, not getting the results, makes a deduction that advertising doesn't pay, and ceases to advertise.

In the meantime the big department store in the nearest city is flooding the newspapers with cuts and descriptions of nifty ties, collars, marked down shirts that are good at any time, seasonable underwear at special prices that is needed to fill in between times.

The local dealer is disappointed because people won't buy stock in a livery stable in Venice; and loses the sale of other stocks that might be practicable.

The department store in the city gets the trade because it knows that the ordinary person has no use for something he does not need at that particular time.

The business man who never gets advertising to produce results are the Micawbers of trade—always waiting for something to turn up. The man who knows how to advertise, and tries to sell the people something they want, WHEN THEY WANT IT and not to unload what he doesn't want—turns something up.

Jean is a very matter-of-fact tot of three summers Her mother one day while holding in her arms the wee baby sister, who was very delicate, remarked: "Dear me she looks so frail a breath would blow her away." Jean taking a long breath, puffed it suddenly into the face of the little sister, and, stepping back, waited a moment in silence. Then in a disappointed tone she said: "Well, why don't you go?"

The Frankness of Women

Though the male was never taken at his own valuation by women, for the first time in modern history women are beginning to say so.—Morley Roberts in "Thorpe's Way"

MINING TERRITORY WILD AND WOOLLY

The mining towns in the vicinity of Burgettstown furnished all kinds of excitement Monday. At the Lake Erie there was a good sized riot in which an unknown negro was seriously injured. Cherry Valley furinshed a free for all fight in which several people were injured, and at Francis mines a miner was so severely cut as to render surgical aid necessary. Alcohol was back of the trouble in each case.

Noiseless Furniture.

Irritating noises can be avoided by taking some old felt hats, cutting out from these disks about the size of a quarter and securely fastening them to the bottoms of the legs of all chairs, tables and other movable articles not provided with casters This also prevents the scratching of polished floors

Municipal Reform in Georgia.

For several years there has been a law forbidding the running of bulls loose on the streets This law has not been enofrced for several years, but it does seem that it should now be enforced, as there are several such animals now at large—Blackshear Times

What He Might Expect.

"Trimmins has a first-rate voice,' said the critic at the concert; "but he always comes in behind time." "Yes," replied the man who lends money "I guess it's force of habit. Trimmins notes are always overdue"—Stray Stories

Men's Inhumanity to Man.

Some men, when they are arrested on a serious charge, are sent to jail Others, like one in New York, fare much worse The magistrate told his wife to take him home and tell him what she thought of him.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle

A Queer Customer.

"Mandy," said the village tailor to his wife, "I'm going to give Sam Billings a suit of clothes for a pig." "My goodness, papa!" exclaimed his little daughter "what does a pig want with a suit of clothes?"

PURLOINING CAUSES TROUBLE

Elco Man is Charged With Theft of Wine and Razors

Charged with purloinging a keg of wine, several razors and some stuff to eat from the family larder and home of Samuel Leonard of Long Branch borough, Ben Brierly of Elco is languishing in the county jail Ben it is alleged, started out on a foraging expedition Sunday night, and the residence of Mr. Leonard seemed to afford the easiest picking. The swag was gotten away with all right, but suspicion pointed in the direction of Brierly, and he was arrested.

At a hearing before Justice of the Peace J. G. Lowers, Brierly was committed to jail in default of bail to await the action of the grand jury. He was taken to the borough bastile Tuesday.

TRADE IS SUSPENDED

Packet I. C. Woodward is Tied up in Winter Quarters

Packet trade on the Monongahela river between Pittsburg, Brownsville, Morgantown and Fairmont, W. Va has been suspended and the packet I. C. Woodward is tied up As a means of rapid transportation the railroads have superseded the steamboat. A few years ago the packet trade along the Monongahela valley was all important but new developments, the construction of new railroads and the necessity of freight handlers to have merchandise transported more rapidly than can be done by the river together with the irregularity of steamers coming and going has meant a gradual falling off of business for the steamboat men

PACKARD MADE BIG HIT AT CHAUTAUQUA

A number of Charleroi people saw Alton B. Packard, the cartoonist to appear here tonight at Chautauqua last summer He made a great hit at the popular summer resort, where an entertainer has to be exceptionally good to even be regarded as passable. Mr. Packard drew a big audience there in the immense amphitheatre and ably demonstrated his ability to entertain He will appear at School Hall tonight at 8 o'clock and indications are that he will be greeted by a full house.

Dignified Rebuke.

Philip of Macedonia, after the battle of Chaeronea, where he defeated the Greeks sent a boasting and insolent letter to the King of Sparta. Archidamus, the king, sent this caustic rejoinder: "If thou wilt measure thy shadow, thou wilt find that it hath not increased in size since thy victory"

In Praise of Poetry.

The old hymn says: "Religion never was designed to make our pleasures less," and the same thing ought to be said about poetry The distaste for poetry arises from the habit of treating it as if it were only a more difficult kind of prose . . . The prosaic commentary obscures the beauty of the text.—C M. Crothers.

Sacrifice Not His

Note in the Ceylon Independent. "Dear Sir—Mudaliyar Harry Jayawardana has evidently forgotten that he handed me his hat at the cremation of the late high priest I am sorry I failed to inform him before that, carried away by the sentiment of the moment, I flung it to the burning pyre, hoping for future merit. May the merit be his, as he was the owner of the hat!"

Undecipherable.

"Do you know anything about Euripides?" asked the erudite relative. "A little" replied the young man with nerve "And what are your impressions?" "Well, what I have seen of his stuff convinces me that he wrote a mighty poor hand"

The project was first thoroughly investigated and approved by the executive committee
